The Squire's Sweetheart

BY KATHARINE TYNAN

WARD, LOCK & CO., LIMITED
London, Melbourne, and Toronto

"That is the worst of caring for someone very much, he said soberly. 'One is apt to be so unreasonably afraid. Think, Don, there are two of them. Two women are not run over in the London streets without some account of them.'"

"I did not think of them being run over," the Squire said wearily. He said no more—nothing of the thing he did fear.

He made an effort to rouse himself, while his eye turned towards the door. There was something in the way he warned his hands as though the frost of age had suddenly come upon him. As the firelight played over his face Hilary was astonished at the ravages a few hours had made in it. Poor old Don! He had taken love very badly, since an inexplicable absence of a few hours of the girl he loved could have so ravaged his sensitive face.

"I dare say if you went back to town you would find they had returned," Hilary ventured. "I thought of going back by the ten o'clock. Better ring for some food and come with me. It is awful to sit and do nothing. I shall go mad."

"The Squire's face kindled for a moment with gleam of life and energy which soon went out.

"She would not have come back," he said, and turned round with his back to the fire. "Besides, I have sent a message to Egerton to come to me here. I can't talk things over before that woman. Perhaps we may come to some conclusion between us."

"Then you won't want me! I had made up my mind to go back by the ten o'clock. I have plenty of time still."

"Can't you stay?" the Squire asked in a tone of mechanical kindness. "Why should you run away, Hilary, when you have just come? You are not looking yourself. Been overworking? I thought you'd have been down a month ago."

"I shall come back. As a matter of fact, Don, I'm infernally worried. You have not got all the troubles of life to yourself. Since I came down this afternoon I've heard that old Gilbert South has filed a petition for divorce."

"Ah, that's bad, that's very bad!" said the Squire. "He'll be hounded out of court. He hasn't a leg to stand on, the old scoundrel. It will only make that poor woman whiter and him blacker."

"It will kill her," said Hilary briefly.

There was a knock at the door. The Squire looked up eagerly. "It will hardly be Egerton yet," he said; but his face fell as William brought in the evening's letters on a tray.

"There may be some word," suggested Hilary.

The Squire turned over the letters rapidly. It was as he had known it would be. There was no letter in Dolly's large, somewhat unformed handwriting, which had been used to contain so many sweet things for a lover.

He put the letters on one side. Then took them up again and glanced through them more carefully. The superscription on one seemed to puzzle him. He opened it, took in the contents of the first paper he extracted, then went on to the other, and the expression of his face changed.

"There is some news," he said. "Good! I told you it would be all right."

The Squire looked at him as though he had not heard or did not quite understand him.

"I wish Egerton would come," he said.

"Who took the message?"

"Old Hall's grandson."

"I'll have time to call at the New Cottage, if I start now. The message may have miscarried."

"Stay, Hilary! I'll come with you. I can't wait here. Do you know—"

"Of course you don't—how the ticking of a clock can be like the dropping of ice-cold water on your heart? I dare say we'll meet Egerton on the way, and I can turn back with him."

"Have some food first. I ought to stay and see that you eat it, but I'll lose my train if I do. I'll send Egerton all right. You'll let me know at once what has happened."

"As soon as there is anything to tell."

The door opened again; and this time it was Lionel Egerton who came. Hilary shook hands with him as he passed out, not so engrossed in his own troubles that he forgot to tell William that his master had not dined and that he had better be set in the dining room.

It was only when he was in the train that he remembered the Squire had kept to himself what was in the letter that contained news.

At Chappell Place a disappointment awaited him; Mr. Langton was out of town. A new servant opened the door to him.

"When did he go?"

"He went yesterday, sir. He was very much in need of a holiday. If it is urgent, sir, Dr. Verner, of Wiltshire Street is seeing his patients, No. 11, sir."

"Thank you."

Hilary went away, baffled and defeated—walked through miles of unaccustomed streets, got back to his rooms in the small hours, and only then remembered that he had not asked when Mr. Langton was coming back.

He was at Chappell Place as early as he dared present himself in the morning to ask the question, but was met with a rebuff. Mr. Langton had not said when he was coming back. It might be a month, maybe six weeks.

Could a letter be forwarded to him?

Hilary's appearance forbade his being taken as an importunate dun, which was just as well. He noted vaguely that the house had a dishevelled air—a cleaning-up going on, evidently.

The man answered respectfully enough that Mr. Langton's were not to be forwarded, as he would be moving about from place to place.

Hilary went away more baffled and disturbed than ever. After a few days, during which he walked and drove about northwest London, hoping vainly to come upon some landmark that he could recognize from that night drive in Mr. Langton's motor, he went and interviewed Dr. Verner—a fat, rather foolish-faced young man, who was not likely Hilary thought bitterly, to deprive Mr. Langton of many patients.

Dr. Verner a glass in one eye that turned a fixed glare on Hilary, regretted that he was not in a position to give Mr.—er—Strangways any information which would enable a letter to reach Mr. Langton.

He added, in a more human and friendly way that Langton was always a solitary fellow. He had been just the same when he had been up at Oxford with Dr. Verner's patient—Sir William Verner, you know. Langton was quite popular according to Sir William Verner, but always a quiet fellow, though he had retired more and more into his shell as years went by.

"He's a splendid fellow," all the same," Dr. Verner concluded, in a genial outburst. "If you want to see him very badly—I dare say he won't stay away too long. He'll be thinking of all the people who depend on him. Some people pitch their patients to the devil when they go for a holiday. Not Langton. Langton would rush back from the finest holiday ever was if he suspected that a patient wanted him badly. He was thoroughly done up this time. I advised him not to have letters forwarded; he'd never stand the winter if he hadn't a good holiday."

Some people might have thought of Mr. Langton's chauffeur as the one to discover for Hilary the place he searched for so incessantly in those days when he had thought to be in Scotland. That was something Hilary could not do. He had suggested tentatively to Dr. Verner, who became more friendly as the time passed, that Mr. Langton's patients at the nursing home must miss him badly.

General Brusiloff

Mr. Hamilton Fyfe, giving his impression of General Brusiloff, in the Daily Mail, says that for his age, which is sixty-four, he looks marvelously little and young; he is marvelously active. "He eats little. Twenty minutes for dinner he considers more than enough. He is never hurried, never worried. He makes his plans and applies all the force of his character to getting them carried out. He inspires trust in good men, fear in others. His orders have got to be obeyed; everyone knows that. Brusiloff is eager for action, eager to end the war. If any man can pull Russia together and make her see which way the parallel paths of duty and self-interest lie, that man is Brusiloff. His universal popularity is a very valuable asset."

Ship Losses Tremendous

Norway's losses of ships in the U-boat warfare for the six months ended June 29, says a Christiania despatch, were about 4,490,000 tons. Indiscriminate U-boat attacks resulting in several sinkings have just compelled the Swedish fishing fleet on the coast of Norway outside the German danger zone to suspend fishing and return home before the end of the season after heavy losses.

Drowning Accidents

Many Lives Uselessly Sacrificed Through Carelessness

Each year many lives are lost by drowning accidents. Carelessness and bravado are the chief causes, consequently many lives might be saved by the exercise of caution.

Learning to swim is of course the first essential in the preventing of drownings, but, even in this, there is an element of danger, as the learner is often tempted to go beyond his depth before fully competent to take care of himself. To keep within his depth is the only safe way for the beginner.

Carelessness in the use of rowboats and canoes has claimed many victims. Ordinary common-sense only is necessary to overcome these drowning accidents. These frail craft are only intended for the use of those who know how to use them, and safety depends upon the occupants refraining from moving about.

The use of high-speed motor boats of late has added its chapter to the record of lives lost by drowning. Lack of speed restriction on our inland lakes and rivers has encouraged the "speed fiend," and consequently many accidents are due to his running down and swamping rowboats and canoes, as well as collisions with other motor boats.

These accidents are avoidable, and the most elementary application of "safety first" principles would save to Canada many needlessly wasted lives.

In Wilson County, Kansas, a farmer whose wheat threshed rooms of his home to store it.

Meatless days are now in order, in Canada. Every Tuesday has been set apart as the day on which none can be eaten.
The law now provides a stiff penalty for the serving or eating of meat on Tuesdays.

Patrons of the hotels, boarding houses and restaurants will not be able to get any meat, and this applies also to private houses and individual as well.

It's a proud day in the family
when the first mess of home-grown potatoes is dished out by father.

Food prices in England are reported to be dropping. In Canada, the cost of living figures have been rising steadily during the past few months just as in the earlier months.

Community Work In Manitoba

Valuable Work Being Accomplished
Under Direction of Manitoba
Agricultural College

This new line of work has been recently undertaken by the Manitoba Agricultural College. Miss Esther Thompson went to Whittemouth on May first as a community worker. During the past winter she attended the college as a fourth year student. The following extracts from letters from her will give an idea of what she has been doing:

"I helped her with the housework while she went on papering. I did a good deal of baking for her, and as she watched me do it she would ask questions. I also made a fireless cooker and started to cook the porridge. I brought away with me some pieces of white satin and a wire frame which I yesterday made over into a very nice little hat for one of the girls. I took it back last night and she was very pleased with it. She said it seemed as though God had sent me just when she needed help."

"Today I visited five homes. All seem to know about me now, so they receive me quite kindly. I was asked to cover some upholstery. In the second I wrote two letters for samples of dress materials and promised to come back and help to make coats and make a hat over. The third lady wanted some help with canning. The fourth wanted to get some Home Nursing pamphlets. In the fifth home was a little three-months-old baby who was being raised on the bottle. I spent two and a half hours here giving formulas and help and advice, and I am going back tomorrow to teach her how to make cream soups, etc. I also lectured to the school children today."

"I spent all morning with Mrs. X. (not Canadian). She has a three-months-old baby and has to bring it up on the bottle and knows very little about it, but is very glad to learn. I worked out formulas for her according to Dr. Holt, and showed her how to prepare albumen water, and finally I prepared her dinner which consisted of a cream soup and toast. She liked the soup and wanted to know how to make it. Her husband went to the city yesterday, so I wrote an account of the food we were giving, the methods of preparing and time of feeding, etc., and sent it with him to their doctor, and he O.K.'d everything. I was very glad, as she has so much trouble with the child and the father just tells her to let it die, it is not worth the trouble. From dinner till five I worked for a lady (a different nationality). I was making over a hat, which I am going to finish this afternoon. At five I went back to see Mrs. X. and I made her an omelet for her supper. An old lady (different nationality) still was in, and she wasn't satisfied till she got a piece to take home to her husband. I also made a fireless cooker and started to cook the porridge. I brought away with me some pieces of white satin and a wire frame which I yesterday made over into a very nice little hat for one of the girls. I took it back last night and she was very pleased with it. She said it seemed as though God had sent me just when she needed help."

"Today I visited five homes. All seem to know about me now, so they receive me quite kindly. I was asked to cover some upholstery. In the second I wrote two letters for samples of dress materials and promised to come back and help to make coats and make a hat over. The third lady wanted some help with canning. The

"The morning I again went back to Mrs. X. I showed her how to make barley water and showed her how to use the peptonizing powder the doctor had recommended."

"This morning I was called down to see about the milk a little baby was getting. Then I made a couple of calls. One wanted help with her sewing; the other wanted some help with the painting of some picture frames. The rest of the day I have spent on a house plan."

"The next two wanted help with their gardens. On May 18 I was called back to Mrs. F. to show her how to make barley water. She said since I came she has not wasted so much now that she has someone to ask. At least three-quarters of the women I have met are ailing."

"I made seven calls yesterday. She wanted to know about the care of house plants. Tomorrow I am going to help a lady to cover her furniture."

"I planned a picnic program, and planned the program for the Girls' Club, who will meet every week. I am trying to get a soldier's little boy to the hospital for treatment."

"I have had so many requests for help, so I really have work heaped up on all sides. I cut out four suits of underwear for two little boys. In the afternoon I went to the school and laid out the basket ball field. The lady wanted to know how to take heat and tea stains off her oak table. The boy wanted to the hospital this morning. I arranged with the hospital and then I got the Patriotic Fund to pay the child's bill and expenses."

Several cases needing medical attention or operation have been reported to Dr. Fraser, provincial medical officer, and to the Patriotic Society. She has purchased for her work a basket ball, a clinical thermometer and an inexpensive equipment for giving a few cookery lessons."

The various things bought will be brought to the college and kept as equipment for such work in new districts. It is expected, as this valuable work becomes known, that districts will be willing to share expenses and make such outlay as seems desirable."

The Swagger Stick

The Universal Use of the Soldiers' Cane is Explained.

These cute little "swagger sticks" that officers in uniform are carrying on the street are the reverse of military in their appearance. Odd little affairs, sometimes not more than a foot and a half long and more suggestive of effeminacy than of masculine swagger. The swagger stick, as nearly as its origin can be traced, came from England, where, in days of piping peace, the soldier's very tight dress uniform made it almost impossible for him to dispose of his hands when walking about off duty, and it apparently became necessary for him to have something to carry and twiddle with. In England the private soldier carries a "swagger stick" as well as the officer. They are incongruous with khaki. But put a tight, tight, tight on a man and a gay little pull box on the side of his head, and the stick becomes logical enough. However, swagger sticks are not carried in the trenches. ## The Cow Beat Them to It

An official of the board of health in a town not far from Boston, notified a citizen that his license to keep a cow on his premises had expired. In reply to this letter, the official received the following communication: "Monsieur Bord of health—I just get your note that my license to keep my cow has expired. I wish to inform you, Monsieur Bord of Health, that my cow beat you to it—she expired three weeks ago. Much obliged. Yours with respect. PETER"

Deepest Mine In World

The deepest mine in the world is the Morro Velho in Brazil, the lowest galleries of which are 6,000 feet below the surface. The Morro Velho is a gold mine, worked by an English company. The gold-bearing vein descends into the earth like a great knife, at an angle of 45 degrees. The normal temperature at the bottom is only 113 deg. F., and by ventilation is kept down to about 100.

YES! MAGICALLY! CORN'S LIFT OUT WITH FINGERS

You say to the drug store man, "Give me a small bottle of freezezone." This will cost very little but will positively remove every laid or soft corn or callus from one's feet. A few drops of this new ether compound applied directly upon a tender, aching corn relieves the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, dries up and can be lifted off with the fingers.

This new way to rid one's feet of corns was introduced by a Cincinnati man, who says that freezezone dries in a moment, and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without irritating the surrounding skin.

Don't let father die of infection or lockjaw from whitening his corns, but clip this out and make him try it.

If your druggist hasn't any freezezone tell him to order a small bottle from his wholesale drug house for you.

Dry Period Coming

Whiskey Will Not Last More Than a Year

Chapin and Gore, for 60 years one of the largest whiskey manufacturing firms in the country, is to go out of business.

Mr. Hermann declared that within 60 days not less than 2,000 saloons in Chicago would be forced out of business by the new legislation, and that a like proportion throughout the country would be similarly affected. He estimated that the whiskey now in existence in the United States would be exhausted within a year at the present rate of consumption, saying that he had positive knowledge that there was not more than 200,000,000 gallons of whiskey in the government warehouses. The normal consumption is said to be about 135,000,000 gallons, while, with the prospect of a dry period coming, it is expected that drinkers will try to store up a supply that will last for some time, thus taking all that is left over before the end of the next 12 months.

Miller's Worm Powders are not surpassed by any other preparation as a vermifuge or worm destroyer. Indeed, there are few preparations that have the merit that it has to recommend it. Mothers, aware of its excellence, seek its aid at the first indication of the presence of worms in their children, knowing that it is a perfectly trustworthy medicine that will give immediate and lasting relief.

The Quicker Method

"Moike, Oi had 'nit' just thinkin'. Suppose Oi had a fit 'n' yez had a pint of whiskey, would yez kneel down an' put the bottle to me lips?"

"Yez wouldn't?"

"No, Oi could bring yez to yer fate quicker by standin' up in front of yez an' drinkin' it meself."

Coal Cards in Berlin

Coal cards have been introduced in Berlin in order to regulate the winter supply. Apartments with heating stoves will be limited to a quarter of a ton per room and a maximum of a ton and a half for more than five rooms. Steam-heated houses will be limited to half of last year's supply.

To have the children sound and healthy is the first care of a mother. They cannot be healthy if troubled with worms. Use Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

Russian Law Is Suspended

New Socialist Minister Submits Bills on Land Reform

The provisional government has decided to suspend operations of the Agrarian law passed in 1906. Without the Duma's consent, M. Stolypin, the premier at the time, provided for the abolition of commercial ownership of peasant land and the substitution of individual ownership. The sponsor for the repeal is the new Socialist minister of agriculture, M. Tchernoff.

The minister has submitted to the council of ministers ten other bills on land reform, town as well as country. One provided for the better application of science in the work of the ministry of agriculture; another establishes a department of agriculture, economy and policy; another regulates the exploitation of forests. In principle the council approved these bills. It is intended to promulgate them speedily, leaving for the constituent assemblies decision the basic question of the transfer of the lands of the nobility to the peasantry.

WHEN YOUR COLOR FADES

When a girl—or a woman—finds her color fading, when her cheeks and lips grow pale, and she gets short of breath easily and her heart palpitates after slight exertion, or under the least excitement, it means that she is suffering from anaemia—thin, watery blood. Headache and backache frequently accompany this condition, and nervousness is often present.

The remedy for this condition is to build up the blood, and for this purpose there is no medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They build up the redness of the blood, brighten the eyes, color the cheeks, and a general feeling of renewed health and energy. The only other treatment needed is plenty of sunlight, moderate exercise and good, plain food. The girl or woman who gives this treatment a fair trial will soon find herself enjoying perfect health.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Not His Name

In Dublin a zealous policeman caught a cab driver in the act of driving recklessly. The officer stopped him and said:

"What's yer name?"

"Yell better try and find out," said the driver peevishly.

"Sure, and I will," said the policeman, as he went round to the side of the cab where the driver ought to have been seated; but the letters had been rubbed off.

"Ah," tried the officer. "Now y'll get yerself into worse disgrace than ever. Yer name seems to be obliterated."

"You're wrong!" shouted the driver triumphantly. "Tis O'Sullivan!"

Austrian Revolution Probable

The probability of a revolution in Austria if a peace treaty is signed this year is indicated in an Amsterdam despatch to the London Daily Express. Emperor Charles, led recently to the side of the parties in the reichsrath, was solemnly warned, the despatch says, of the danger of a revolution. The party leaders are said to have told the emperor that both the Austrian and Hungarian peoples were beginning to realize that they were fighting for the aims of Germany, and that they had decided positively to make an end of their present plight, provided the allies would permit the Austro-Hungarian empire to continue to exist.

"Won't you give me a kiss to remember you by?"

Proper Methods of Butter Making

Few persons trouble themselves about the reason that creamery butter is to be preferred to dairy butter, but by way of introduction to Bulletin No. 53 of the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch, Ottawa, Dairy Commissioner Ruddick furnishes an explanation. Incidentally he also points out that a good deal of damage is done to the trade by inferior dairy butter.

The bulletin, for which Mr. George H. Barr, Chief of the Dairy Division, is responsible, in concise terms describes the whole process of butter making, tells the utensils to be used, gives the results of experiments with the separator as regards temperature and the variations in speed, deals with the care of cream in cooling and preparing for churning and in pasteurizing, gives expert counsel as to salting and working and points to the advisability of attractive packing in parchment paper.

He also points out the requirements of the law in branding or marking and supplies practical hints on the care of the utensils. Finally he tells in terse terms how to get the best results from farm dairy work.

Both the bulletin and a blue print of the plan for a dairy that is given can be had free by application to the Dairy Commissioner or to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

POTENTIALITY OF AIRPLANE FOR MILITARY USES IS DEMONSTRATED

FUTURE OF THE AIRPLANE AND THE SUBMARINE
It Is Very Difficult To Set Limits To Effectiveness of Airplanes Used In Large Numbers In Destroying Enemy Gun-Making And Munition Plants, Paralyzing Military Activity

The unprecedented achievement of the French aviator, Sergeant Gallois in wiping out single-handed a large section of the Krupp munition works at Essen in Germany, is one of the most notable adventures in the history of the war. There was nothing accidental in his success. He knew what he had to do; he planned his route and stuck to it; he flew across Essen and back, dropping bombs on the works; and, he returned to the spot whence he had started, some hours before. The total distance covered during that interval was nearly four hundred and sixty-seven miles. Fortunately he was not injured, and practically uninjured by his strenuous adventure.

Interesting as the achievement of Gallois is, it is still more important. It shows, as no previous incident has done, the potentiality of the airplane for military purposes. If one aviator can fly so far without injury and do so much harm to the enemy by dropping a few bombs on the most important spot in Germany, it is difficult to set limits to what might be achieved by a few dozens of such men. It seems altogether likely just now that Gallois will have scores, perhaps hundreds, of ambitious imitators, many of whom will lose their lives, but some of whom will succeed. It should be borne in mind that to put the Krupp gun-making and munition-making establishment out of business would go far to paralyze the military activity and destroy the military efficiency of the German empire.

For some time past there has been developing a disposition among military and naval experts to institute comparisons or contrasts between the future of the airplane and that of the submarine. In a recent public address, Secretary Baker of the War Department of the United States made the announcement that American skill and American scientific knowledge, and the inexhaustible resources of supplies, shall all be drawn upon, and we shall contribute to the unquestionable supremacy of the air, so that the efficiency of military operations may be maintained. Some months ago Admiral Perry, of Mexico, has suggested that small but swift seaplanes might be used effectively as destroyers of submarines by housing them on a "mother" warship, from whose deck they might make short but swift flights to search for submarines and drop bombs on them with fatal effect, even when submerged. As both the airplane and the submarine are recent entrants into the field of warfare, it will be increasingly interesting to watch their future evolution, respectively.—Toronto Globe.

Ex-Soldiers Will Flock to Canada

Bruce Walker Says It Is Certain Thousands Will Come After War Is Over

"All investigations lead to the decided belief that there will be a tremendous immigration of Imperial army ex-service men to Canada after the war," declared J. Bruce Walker, commissioner of immigration, who has just returned from London. Mr. Walker has been in the Old Country for five months, acting on the Empire Settlement committee, in connection with the settlement of soldiers.

Although not inclined to speak at any length on the features of his trip, he admitted, when questioned on the submarine menace, that his ship was chased for many miles by a submarine and that for four consecutive hours it was engaged in a running fight with the craft. The ship zig-zagged for miles out of its course. A companion ship was less fortunate, and those on deck saw it sink after a few minutes' fight, about a mile and a half away.

Referring to the settlement of soldiers, Mr. Walker continued. "The committee took special pains to ascertain the opinions of all members, and we are abundantly satisfied that a vast proportion of the men of sedentary occupations will not return to such work, but will seek to perpetuate the outdoor life by emigrating to one of the overseas dominions. It is generally recognized in England that the conditions offered by the Canadian government are more attractive and provide greater inducements than those of any other overseas dominion. Upon as the war wears on, demobilization takes place and if the necessary transportation equipment can be provided there will be a tremendous immigration, and particularly to the western provinces."

"Did he have words with his wife?"
"He had a few of them."—Judge.

Interesting Letter From Front Trenches

We recently were successful in getting a band. These instruments were donated by an Edmonton outfit with the proviso that they be sent back to the Edmonton army after the war. Here is one Saskatchewan band. Non in each of the Canadian divisions at the front and it has been stated that a grant of $1,000 was made by the province of Saskatchewan to two of these battalions. This may not be true. It is a well known fact that every battalion in the divisions which followed the first into the field had a very substantial regimental fund. These funds were created by gifts of money from the towns and the cities where the battalions were organized and from profits on regimental campaigns which their long periods of training in Canada made possible as a result of the unfortunate absence of the first division at Valcartier.

The colonel of this battalion and some of his friends purchased very recently one thousand pairs of socks for the boys, and these socks are getting funds from somewhere our private resources as our regimental funds will soon be exhausted and there will undoubtedly be great discomfort.

It may not be possible for the province to grant money out of its treasury, but I am satisfied that if the Fifth Battalion could get the matter up, the people would be very willing and even anxious to help us along. You must be aware of the fact that the boys have gained. I have sent you a copy of our Christmas annual. In this you will read what the senior Canadian Grenadier Guards, the Buffs, and the words there have been altered by the censor, so I am now enclosing General Currie's statement in his own handwriting, which I will ask you to please preserve.

I could tell you many things but I do not think it is necessary. It is stated that the Fifth Battalion has gained more honors and decorations in the field than any other Canadian regiment. It has been specially mentioned in despatches and after every trying experience. Sir Douglas Haig said, "I am proud to have a battalion of this description in my army and wish to thank you for the magnificent gallantry shown in the field." No higher words of praise have ever been given to any unit, and I am sure you all have every reason to be proud of the Canadian's representatives in the first Canadian division.

Will you not take the matter up in a vigorous way and get a sort of Fifth Battalion day could be arranged throughout the province? We had recently a draft of 250 men from Weyburn and Regina. I am sure Dr. Mitchell and Hon. Geo. Bell would be interested. Of the thousands of reinforcements we have had with the exception of the first hundred, all have been from Saskatchewan so that every city, town and village is or has been represented in this unit.

I imagine that the ladies would at once do something if the right ones started things. Lt. Col. H. M. Dyer, D.S.O., is naturally a most conscientious about writing you as he himself is not from Saskatchewan, but he has spent a great deal of his own money on the boys and he is a big hearted and capable soldier. I have told him that I wished to address you in this connection and he has consented. Would you be so kind as to communicate with him about the battalion and its affairs?

I have been greatly honored by being asked to write an introduction to this French magazine published as a Christmas greeting by the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the regiment to their many friends throughout the empire. There is nothing I would not do to oblige the 5th Battalion and so I comply with their request, fully realizing my inability to do proper justice to my theme.

I am quite sure that all who had the pleasure of reading the "Christmas Garland," published by this battalion in 1915, have been awaiting this year's number with eager anticipation. That will not be disappointed and doubtless will find the 1917 number still more entertaining.

For there will be a 1917 number. The war is by no means over, nor is the end even in sight. The struggle must not and will not cease until the power, which has violated every principle of right and honor, which has trampled down the rights of neutral nations, which has treated its most solemn obligations as "mere scraps of paper," which has murdered innocent women and children, which has maltreated its prisoners, which has bayoneted our wounded, shall be forever destroyed.

As to how the war is going to end, the men in the trenches have not the slightest doubt. They are the greatest optimists in the empire. Even in the darkest days, when the men were few, when machine guns were very, very scarce on our side, when we had little artillery and little ammunition, when our position was precarious. The British soldier still had his bayonet and was anxious to use it.

Now it is no longer three rounds per gun per day. We can give and do give more than we receive, still we do not yet give enough. More men and more guns are necessary and Canada must see to it that when a Canadian soldier falls, another is immediately ready and trained to take his place. She has done well in the past. The future demands greater efforts on former sacrifices. Count as naught. Were any Canadian soldier in France asked to send a message to his beloved home-land, that messenger would undoubtedly be—Be of good cheer, send us more men and please don't forget our returned wounded.

But I am wondering somewhat from my subject. I intimated in my opening sentence that the 5th Battalion had many friends. It richly deserves them all and their friends must be intensely proud of the battalion's record. No battalion in all our gallant corps has a prouder one. During the twenty-one months, the battalion has fought in France, it has been "over the parapet" many times, has never failed to reach its objective, and has never been driven from a single inch of territory captured or occupied. It enjoys the absolute and implicit confidence of all commanders, and the measure of a unit's efficiency is the amount of confidence placed in it. The Fifth has resolutely and gallantly performed every duty, nobly responded to every demand, patiently and cheerfully endured every hardship and discomfort. It has made many sacrifices, but these have not been made in vain. A standard of devotion to duty has been set which must be emulated. The record of its fighting prowess fills many a page in the glorious history of the army. It is the only unit so proudly wear the word Canada on their shoulder straps, and the half has not yet been told. It has been mentioned in despatches by the commander-in-chief. It has played the game. Thank God for such battalions as the Fifth, and there are many such in Britain's mighty and victorious army.

And so I commend this magazine to all, feeling certain that those who read it will be more than repaid for the time thus spent, and asking that they will not forget the men who are daily laying down their lives in order that "Peace on Earth and Good Will to Men" may once more prevail. I am, Sir, your obedient servant, J. A. Canadian Division, November, 1916.

You are at liberty to use, if you deem it necessary, General Currie's eulogy and any portions of this letter. I would prefer not to be mentioned myself as I do not like either notoriety or advertisement.

Yours truly,
(Signed) F. B. BAGSHAW.

Exports From United States

Some Figures Regarding Shipments of Foodstuffs During War Times

The burden of America in feeding the world during the war is emphasized by the export figures on certain foodstuffs for the month of April, obtained from an official source by the food administration.

The figures show that wheat exports increased from 11,292,788 bushels, as an average for the preceding nine months, to 14,233,013 bushels for April. The nine-months figures represent an increase of 52 per cent, as compared with a three year pre-war period. (1912-14.)

Beef exports, which had shown a comparative gain of 330 per cent in the nine months over the pre-war period, increased from 22,295,972 pounds to 48,211,392 pounds.

Sugar, which had shown a 1,500 per cent increase in the nine months period, on the refined product, decreased in April from the average of 103,486,176 pounds to 92,283,738 pounds.

A notable decrease was in the matter of fish exports, which include canned salmon and dried fish. The average of 15,122,474 pounds exported in the nine month period dropped to 7,544,877 pounds for April. The figures are for exportations of domestic origin only.

The Mysterious "Dora"

Scotland Yard would appear to be generating a mystery about a mythical lady who always manages to keep in the background, says the London Chronicle. Several inquiries have been informed of late that "Dora" makes it impossible for their requests to be granted. "Dora" is always in evidence. She won't let you do this and she objects to that, but always in a polite way. Who is Dora? Who is she, that bold, bad men condemn her? The secret leaked out recently. She is nothing more dreadful than the official name for the Defense of the Realm Act.

"It is a legal and logical principle that ordinary penal laws may be applied to acts of war that are not justified by international law," said Monsiur Cagion De Wiart, Belgian minister of justice, replying to an inquiry by the Associated Press as to his opinion of the proposed international high court for the trial of officers, soldiers and individuals guilty of atrocities in this war.

"The Hague convention," continued Mr. De Wiart, "says that 'belligerents have not an unlimited right to choose means to harm the enemy.' All civilized countries admit that acts perpetrated during a state of war and which are not technically 'acts of war' may be punished by the ordinary civil courts or the military courts, whether they are crimes or mere offenses. In fact, the 'German manual of laws of war' mentions a considerable number of prohibitions as, for instance, those regarding the employment of certain weapons and the killing of wounded soldiers.

"Whoever should 'violate' those prescriptions," the manual says, "shall be responsible to his country. If he is taken prisoner, military penalties could be applied to him."

"The same principle is stated in instructions of the United States of 1863, which form a wonderful code of human principles."

"These instructions say that crimes committed in time of war may be punished according to ordinary penal laws, not only by the army to which the criminals belong, but also by the army by which they are captured."

"Under the circumstances it is obvious," the minister continued, "that Germany, as the man, but she has, have set fire to buildings without necessities of war, may be judged by the courts of the allied armies and allied countries. The application of this principle have already been made. If the guilty fall into our hands we must not hesitate; we are obliged to judge him, but we must judge contumacious enemy officers or soldiers, as there is a chance that we shall not be able to execute the sentence."

"Even when we have the guilty man in our hands there are difficulties in obtaining evidence against him, and he argues as he certainly will, that we acted only by order, what can we answer if we wish to remain just and fair. I am of the opinion that, in these questions lawyers and magistrates will have to apply strictly the principles of international law. If this application of justice is not sufficient—and, unfortunately, I fear it will not be—the case-competent authorities should take other measures to give satisfaction to public opinion in regard to German atrocities."

"What may these measures be? There are, first, reprisals; there is another solution, the consequences of the third paragraph of the Hague convention, which was proposed by German delegates and which reads as follows: 'The belligerent who should violate the dispositions of the convention and should refuse to indemnify the people he has robbed. He shall be held responsible for all acts done by persons belonging to his army.'

"This is the great point," said Mr. De Wiart in conclusion, "and in my opinion there can be no peace without such reparation."

Conserving Food In Britain

War Savings Committee Report Shows People Voluntarily Cutting Down Rations

Premier Lloyd George has written to the chairman of the national war savings committee thanking him for the committee's efforts and paying tribute to its success in effecting food economy. Mr. Lloyd George adds that he has every hope "that the people of Great Britain will be able to claim the title of victors in their own free will what the people of other countries could only achieve by compulsion."

"What the committee has done may be illustrated by the figures relating to the reduction in the consumption of bread. Thus, in the Paddington district of London, the consumption of bread dropped by 25 to 30 per cent. in two months. In Willesden bread sales per week in May amounted to 481,839, in June they dropped to 380,404 pounds. Brighton is eating 20 per cent. less bread, and Reading 25 per cent. less. Portsmouth reports that 180,540 pounds less bread per week was sold in May, and the reduction of 75,000 pounds in June.

These are only some figures chosen at random from reports collected by the committee, but they show the thoroughness of the work it has done.
